

Meisels and Meisels Certified Public Accountants

Charles H. Meisels has been practicing accounting for more than forty years. He's a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants and National Society of Accountants.

From 1964 to 1975 he was a staff accountant, beginning as a junior, working his way up to assistant to the tax partner. During this period, he also served on various tax committees of the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants; and in conjunction with the committee service, he published several articles in the Society's monthly journal.

For approximately three years, he was an adjunct professor in accounting and taxation in the City University colleges.

In 1975, he went into practice as a sole practitioner. His practice has been located in the Five Towns since 1993.

In 2002, David Meisels joined the firm as a partner after working as a senior tax accountant at Price Waterhouse Coopers. He is a member of American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants. The firm also employs one Certified Public Accountant and one paraprofessional.

In addition, the firm services a diversified clientele. Some of the various industries the firm services include real estate developers, lessors and operators; retail chain stores; manufacturers; wholesale diamond and gem dealers; and personal service companies.

The growth and success of the firm is due to the personal service provided to all clients. These services include income and estate tax planning, tax return preparation, representation before the various government agencies, as well as, general accounting and financial statement preparation.

The firm is also a member of the Peer Review program administered by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. We are pleased to state that the firm has successfully completed its peer reviews receiving an unqualified opinion from the reviewer.
